VOL. 3. NO 3

LOMOND, ALBERTA, FRIDAY, AUG. 23, 1918.

$1.00 PER YEAR.

LOCALETS

The numerous friends of W. A. Isaac, who for more than two years was on the staff of the local branch of the Standard Bank, will regret to learn that he has been killed in action after but a few days' service in the Air Force on the battlefields of France.

Claude Terwilliger and his man Meyers were in town Wednesday inspecting the local elevator, which will be opened soon with Jim Manning in charge.

The Associated Farmers semi-annual meeting is being held a week from tomorrow afternoon, August 31st.

Mrs. Willett of Spokane, Wash., is here for a couple of months visiting her sister, Mrs. F. O. Cox.

John Urdal, north of town, has just completed the erection of a fine large barn and is giving a dance on Friday, August 30th., the proceeds of which will be turned in to the Red Cross.

Mr. Edward Skerry, father of Mrs. Glen H. Ficht, died at Medicine Hat on Monday of this week. Deceased was in his seventy-sixth year. Glen H. Ficht, accompanied by Jno. H. Skerry of Boston who has been visiting here for the past month, a son of the deceased, went to the Hat last week on being summoned by wire and were with him at the end. The remains were taken to P.E.I. for interment.

J. C. Jensen has leased his farm to H. Klug and is holding an auction sale of his effects, the date of which will be announced later.

Barnett Bros. have started up their threshing outfit, the yields going from six to twelve bushels per acre.

Secretary Swain is busy rustling taxes and teachers for the grand opening on September third. The van routes have been awarded to C. H. Summers for Dufferin and Deepwater, H. A.

Tenders for School House

SEALED TENDERS will be received by the Board of Trustees of Adler School District No. 3655 at the office of the Secretary-Treasurer up to noon of September 16th., 1918, for the erection of a frame school building. Plans and Specifications may be obtained from the Secretary-Treasurer on payment of a deposit of $5.00, which will be returned on receipt of a bona fide tender with plans and specifications. The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the Department of Education.

E. H. RAND,
Secretary-Treasurer.
Amethyst, Alta., Aug. 19, 1918.

Boner for Rolling Prairie, and J. E. Root for Ocean Wave.

Recent rains have started the grass again and a bit more water would provide a good deal of feed in the relief of the hay shortage. It takes a lot of rain to make much of a showing since extended dry spell.

A new school district has been organized north and west of Kinnondale and christened as Adler. Tenders are being called for the erection of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Willard are away to Lethbridge for a few days.

Editor, wife and son, and Mrs. B. King, took a motor trip to Banff this past week.

Mrs. W. H. Smith left on Thursday on a trip to Michigan, leaving by way of Brooks.

George Hedges has fallen amongst the sporting element and is becoming somewhat of a crack pool shot—he is running the Club pool room while proprietor Tibbitts is out threshing.

George Porter is prospecting through the Peace River country.

Harry Rounds and Ashley Hannah are known to have been in Calgary this week.

Mrs. H. E. Elves is in the 'Hat for a few days.

Frank Wilson was down from the north for a couple of days this week.

Rev. and Mrs. Bell motored to Pincher last week, bringing home their little seven-year-old daughter.

W. A. Smith is again on the sick list.

School Opening Sale of Boys' Clothing next week.—Frank Brown Co.

A Few Figures.
Col. John S. Dennis, of the British-Canadian recruiting mission, in a speech at the University Club, Chicago, declared that when the United States has entered the war as fully as Canada, we shall have had a casualty list of 2,000,000 and will have enlisted 10,000,000 men. In the three and one-half years Canada has been in the war, he said, her casualties total 115,000, although her population is only 8,000,000.

Remarkable River Postwoman.
One thousand two hundred miles by water were covered during the season by the first river postwoman in England in delivering letters and packages to the bungalow and houseboat dwellers along the Staines Reach.

A Lot to Know.
When Disraeli was prime minister of England a good looking young man applied to him for a government position. "I know, sir," said the applicant wistfully, "how little I know."
"Dear me," said Disraeli, "as much as that? I haven't got half that distance yet."

A SAVING OF MILLIONS.

Scheme to Salvage War Material and Work It Up for Army Use.

A huge scheme of salvage, which will save the country millions a year, and probably as much as £100,000,000 by the time the war is ended, is about to be put into operation. It crowns the work of Mr. Andrew Weir, the able Director-General of Supply. To carry out the scheme a board of twelve experts, at the head of which is Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Cowans, has been appointed; the actual Director of Salvage is Brig.-Gen. L. W. Archerley, who is well spoken of.

The idea is to collect and bring back from France the whole of the war material that has been lying there unused or half-used for some time, and to work it up again for the army. In this fashion enormous quantities of copper, steel, and such-like commodities, which otherwise would need to be brought from overseas, will be available, thus effecting a most valuable saving in tonnage, not to speak of money.

There are dumps in France so extensive that it will take 1,000 men weeks to remove the stuff, but, presumably, the task will be tackled systematically, and spread over a period sufficiently long to avoid any strain on the labor at the front.

A modest salvage scheme, by means of which empty shell-cases and worn-out clothing for remanufacture have been returned to England, has been in operation for a number of months, but its results are modest compared with those aimed at in the new scheme which brings into being an organization that will deal with the raw material from the collecting stage to its re-issue and on a commercial basis.—Tit-Bits.

Faith in the Trenches.

Harry Lauder tells in the American Magazine of his experience in France, and he says:

"I spent many days in the trenches, the rest camps, the hospitals, and in the surrounding towns, and the most definite impression I carried away was one concerning the spiritual atmosphere which surrounds the French and British soldiers in France. I talked with some of the men for hours at a time about their experiences in battle, about their feeling toward the enemy, but the one thing I came away with, above all other impressions, was the conviction that every single one of these men, no matter what manner of lives they had lived before, now possess a calm, clear conviction that if they fall in the thick of the fight, they will pass into the life beyond.

"That's why we take such chances," one man told me simply. 'Do you think for a moment that if we thought that life held nothing for us than the earthly body we possess, we would fight with such a confidence able to, because we would be doing everything in our power to preserve this life of ours. But seeing men die as I have seen them, I know better than to disbelieve in a future life. And because we have no fear of death, everyone of us fling ourselves over the bags and on to the Hun with a fierce, almost savage joy. We are almost Japanese in our fatalism, and because that spirit is sweeping among our men we are going to win this war. We don't believe it possible that men who go into battle, knowing that they are fighting for a righteous cause, and unafraid of death, can be beaten back forever. Some day, at some point, the enemy must weaken, and then we will sweep over the top and nothing will hold us back. We know it just as surely as we know the sun will rise tomorrow.'"

The Lords on Suffrage.

It is the general opinion that the speeches in the House of Lords against woman suffrage, at the session which witnessed the victory of the women's cause, certainly did not err on the side of originality, whatever high level they reached in the matter of eloquence. Lord Loreburn spoke of "a leap in the dark," one of the Morning Post's favorite expressions; Lord Curzon of the "opening of floodgates." It was curious how prominent a part was taken in the debate by no less than five chancellors, past and present. Two were in favor, Lord Haldane and Lord Buckmaster, and three against, Lord Finlay, Lord Halsbury and Lord Loreburn. Division of opinion among the heads of the legal profession is no new thing on the question of women's enfranchisement. A story is recalled of how, many years ago, the then Attorney-General, afterward "Lord Chief," Sir John Coleridge remarked that women possessed many qualities fitting them to be judges, but was brought up with the growl from Serjeant Dowse that "because so many judges are old women that's no reason for making old women judges."

Hard on Hairdressers.

The Defence of the Realm Act, which has been nicknamed "Dora," has come in for more abuse from hair dressers owing to an embargo put on the use of the spirits for general use. The measure has become necessary in consequence of the enormously increased demand for munition and Red Cross needs. Dry shampoos and hair lotions are all threatened by the latest order of "Dora," and as the use of methylated spirit for burning purposes is also forbidden, thousands of forced-draught oil-stoves which cannot be lighted except by the aid of spirit, are made useless.

Artificial Diamonds.

Sir Charles Parsons, who has been experimenting for over thirty years upon the production of artificial diamonds, will shortly lecture at the British Institute of Metals on the result of his labors. He has probably more inventions to his credit than any other living Englishman. The turbine king—for the modern turbine in its application both to merchant ships and warships is the work of Sir Charles—took off his coat some forty years ago as an apprentice in the great Armstrong workshops.

A Long Journey.

After two years in the mud and trenches of Flanders, Thomas Atkins got his leave at last, and made what he conceived to be the best use of his holiday by getting married. On the journey back, at Southampton, he showed to the inspector his marriage certificate in mistake for his return railway pass. The official who chanced to be a Scot, studied it carefully, and then said: "Eh, mon, you've got a ticket for a lang wearisome journey, but no on the South Western Railway."

Not So Bad.

"Paw doesn't keer for grand opery. We hear selections in vaudeville occasionally, but paw doesn't keer for it."
"Oh, hush now, maw. I prefer it to the trained dawgs."

Word From Br'er Williams.

Don't be in a hurry fer de long lane ter turn, fer de lion what's waitin' whar de turn is may be mighty hom-gry!

Every shadow points to the sun and sorrow helps us to appreciate to-morrow.

NOTES

So far the public opinion on Alberta's provincial police force does not wax very high, principally due to the passivity over the liquor importations. If all accounts are genuine there is a flourishing trade being carried on over the international boundary with practically no interference from the authorities. It would appear that the force looks to the public for the pay and expects to be 'sic'd' on each individual case before any move is made on their part. If this sort of thing continues we might as well cut out the expense and do the work ourselves anyway.

o o o

Our mail, telephone and telegraph service are all about in the same level of efficiency. A wire sent by the secretary of the Lomond Board of Trade on Friday last to a party at Enchant was delivered on Monday morning. It's 22 miles there!

o o o

THE PRESS would like to get the names of those who were refused work on the roads by the Council, and also those who refused to work on the roads. In previous good years it was practically impossible to secure men and teams from the farms to do a bit of work on the roads. We would like to see the farmers get the work and get the money, too; but their past record does not justify them in much of a complaint.

o o o

In speaking of roads, we fail to grasp the idea in allowing twenty thousand bucks in road work go to ruin for the want of a little dragging and grading—even if money is tight. This is not good business administration, is it? Here is a chance to put a quietus on some of the farmers so anxious to work out their tax money.

o o o

Now that sugar is becoming so scarce, it would be a good idea to encourage bee culture. The B.C. fruit lands should offer a splendid field for the apiarist.

o o o

It's a son-of-a-gun of a pun to hear of the Hun on the run since Foch began his big drive.

NOTES

That judge that scored the farmers' patriotism as being based on $2.21 wheat, evidently never had his five thousand dollar stipend hauled out or burned out. THE PRESS does not favor class legislation that exempts farmers—or any other class of artisans—from military or other civic obligations over and above any other class, but just the same our conception of the dignity of the 'bench' does not blend with such irrelevant utterances against the public.

o o o

Harking back to roads, we are egotistical enough to assert that we could offer a good bit of advice to roadbuilders in the several parts of the province. Since the last issue we drove old Dorothea some five hundred miles over all manner of trails and roads and in no place did any of the road work display evidence of permanency. Even where good road gravel was available ditch muck was being graded or dragged onto the apex of the highway and there left loose in the best possible condition for developing ruts. And where gravel was used one would bump into rocks as big as your head, and only one road roller did we see on the trip. We would like to see an element of stability enter into the construction of some of the main highways, and would volunteer our services as adviser to the department of public works until they felt satisfied in their own mind they could handle the job without further assistance. The present system of road construction as practised on the way from here to Calgary is but a reckless waste of public funds.

TRAVERS

Privates Sullivan and McPherson are here on harvest leave.

Miss Lyall, of the Standard Bank staff, was a Calgary visitor this week.

The Red Cross Society are holding a sewing bee on Wednesday, August the 28th., in the U.F.A. Hall. This is for the ladies interested in this good cause. Come and show your interests.

Mrs. Annie Sheridan returned with her sister, Mrs. Ross, to Elco, last Sunday.

A number of young people motored to Enchant to attend the dance on Thursday evening.

Harvest is in full swing now, the grain yielding on an average of 11 to 15 bushels per acre.

There is a series of lectures on the war and the bible being held in the U. F. A. Hall Sunday evenings, also on Wednesday nights. Everyone invited.

A meeting with representatives from the towns on this line is being held this evening in the Ford Garage for the purpose of better railroad service. Let us hope that success will be theirs.

Mr. and Mrs. McClean have taken over the rooming house and are now serving the public with home-cooked meals. Good, clean, newly furnished rooms are now in readiness also.

Mr. J. S. McCammon is here taking orders for winter hay supply, very reasonable. Call at the Ford Garage and see him. Now is your chance to get good feed.

Private McKay is here on leave, visiting his sister, Mrs. A. S. Buchan.

Another load of lumber arrived for the new station this week. We'll have one yet!

BADGER LAKE

Threshing the little bit of crop is creating quite a flurry of excitement.

Some of our bachelors are budding out and taking long joy rides, etc. The signs are very suspicious.

Times are not too rushing to get married. Leslie Haynes and Miss Pearl Conklin are the latest victims of the matrimonial bug. Congratulations.

B. King and D. A. Wilkinson are on the casualty list this week.

Cap. Calkins arrived home on Wednesday after his summer's trip down in the States.

The First Chance School Board has concluded that school ma'am are a very elusive lot. At any rate the boys are busy scratching gravel in trying to land one for keeps.

Farmers Must Carry On!

This is their essential responsibility in the struggle for peace. Despite what we read of intensive cultivation in the Old World the Canadian and American farmers are the heaviest producers per man. It's the man aided by the most modern machinery that makes the record. A "Fordson" or "Samson" tractor will help you. Massey-Harris machinery cuts out the worry and a Ford car is indispensable to a farmer that means business.

Get the Most Out of Your Poultry by Fattening Birds Well at Home.

The profits obtained from marketing lean, poorly fleshed, unfinished chickens are so small as to be frequently discouraging. Many of the packing houses and larger produce dealers find it necessary to go to considerable expense to provide the necessary premises and equipment to properly finish such poultry. The best place to feed poultry is on the farm, and, if it pays the packing houses to take the trouble, it obviously would be good business to do the work on the farm.

Proper feeding and finishing will not only greatly increase the weight of the birds, but will also enhance the value of every ounce of flesh on the carcass, and greatly reduce the proportion of offal in relation to the amount of edible meat. There is generally a difference of from three to seven cents per pound in the price paid for well-fleshed birds as compared with lean unfinished stock just off the range. There is always a market for prime quality poultry, while the poorer quality has to be sold at whatever price can be obtained, depending on the market and the amount of effort put forth on the part of the part of the seller. Birds generally make the greatest gain when about three to four months of age, and the average birds make the most economical gains during the first two weeks of special feeding. Chickens can be readily taught to feed by lamplight; this is a great convenience, as it is desirable that the time of feeding be spaced as nearly as possible twelve hours apart. The crate system of feeding is much more economical and efficient. In practising this method, one is able to carefully note the progress being made by each bird and the feeding period of the more thrifty can often be shortened or lengthened as desired. Also the flesh of the crate-fed birds is invariably softer than that of the pen-fed birds.

For amplification of the foregoing information apply to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for Bulletin No. 88 of the Division of Poultry of the Experimental Farms entitled "Preparing Poultry Produce for Market."
